Designing a space that balances form and function, and enhances productivity is more challenging today than ever before. Building technology, such as lighting control, video conferencing and energy management are now the standard.

We realize that electronics can sometimes detract from your design. We also understand how to seamlessly blend technology into your designs so the integrity of your vision is maintained, while delivering optimal convenience, efficiency and energy savings for your client.

As a Crestron Interior Design Partner, you have direct access to our design consultants and a host of exclusive benefits. Earn referral fees, an online directory listing and private invitations to preview events.

Designers and clients are often surprised by what is possible today, and how easy Crestron is to use. You can start presentations, turn off lights, lower shades, adjust temperature, and more – right from your phone or tablet.

Crestron has been innovating the way people live and work for more than 40 years. As the pioneers of control and automation, Crestron is widely regarded as the premier brand of intelligent building solutions. We continue to develop the latest technologies and set new standards for integrating systems.

Qualified interior designers in the United States are invited to apply. Contact a Crestron Representative for details.
